July 2011

Dear Colleague,

I am pleased to present Arrests in Wisconsin 2010. This report, prepared by the Office of Justice Assistance's Statistical Analysis Center (SAC), is a collection of arrest data reported by Wisconsin law enforcement agencies in the previous year. It is based on monthly reports submitted to OJA through the Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Program. We greatly appreciate the continued efforts of personnel from the 398 contributing agencies in the collection and reporting of this important information.

This report contains detailed information on arrest volume, rates, and trends for law enforcement agencies throughout the State of Wisconsin. In addition, it provides information on arrestee characteristics such as age, race, and sex for five separate crime categories: Violent, Property, Drug, Society, and Other. It is separated into three main sections: all arrests, adult arrests, and juvenile arrests. Within each of these sections, data are further broken down by crime types. For each crime type, a series of figures and tables are provided to show volume, rates, and trends.

Following the lead of the FBI and their annual report, Crime in the United States, OJA discontinued printed versions of this publication in 2007 and relies exclusively on internet technology for widespread distribution. This allows OJA to maximize its limited resources, while continuing to provide useful and valuable data to a broad audience.

Some of the more important findings are summarized at the beginning of the report (pg. 4), as well as at the beginning of the adult and juvenile sections (pg. 15 and 26). Major findings include a 10% decrease in overall arrests, with a 1% increase in violent and a 10% decrease in property arrests. In addition, drug arrests increased by 2%, while society arrests decreased by 12% and other uncategorized offenses decreased by 9%.

I hope this report meets your needs and trust that you will find it useful. OJA continues to improve its statistical reporting procedures, as well as develop new and innovative ways to make this information available to the public. Should you have any comments or suggestions regarding this report, I encourage you to contact our office with feedback.

Sincerely,

Darcey Varese

UCR Crimes 311

Introduction

As mandated by the Wisconsin Legislature (Wis. Stat. § 16.964(1)(g)), the Wisconsin Office of Justice Assistance (OJA) is responsible for reporting information concerning the number and nature of criminal offenses known to have been committed in the state. This includes collecting crime and arrest data from 399 separate law enforcement agencies for the FBI's Uniform Crime Reporting Program (a nationwide cooperative statistical effort of more than 17,000 law enforcement agencies voluntarily reporting data on crime). The primary objective of UCR is to generate reliable information for use in law enforcement administration, operation, and management. Today, the American public looks to the Uniform Crime Reports for information on fluctuations in the level of crime, while criminologists, sociologist, legislators, municipal planners, the media, and other students of criminal justice use the statistics for varied research and planning purposes.

This report, prepared by the OJA Statistical Analysis Center (SAC), is a collection of arrest data reported by Wisconsin law enforcement agencies in 2010. It contains detailed information on arrest volume, rates, and trends for law enforcement agencies throughout the State of Wisconsin. In addition, it provides information on arrestee characteristics such as age, race, and sex for five separate crime categories: Violent, Property, Drug, Society, and Other. The report also includes a breakdown of arrests by adults and juveniles.

A. Background

The Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Program was first initiated in 1930 by the International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP). Recognizing a need for national crime statistics, IACP formed the Committee on Uniform Crime Records. The committee evaluated various crimes on the basis of their seriousness, frequency of occurrence, pervasiveness in all geographic areas of the country, and likelihood of being reported to law enforcement. After studying state criminal codes and making an evaluation of the recordkeeping practices in use, the Committee identified seven main classifications known as Part I crimes. The seven offense classifications include the violent crimes of murder and non-negligent manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, and the property crimes of burglary, larceny-theft, and motor vehicle theft. By congressional mandate, arson was added as the eighth Part I offense category in 1979. Agencies classify and score these offenses according to a hierarchy rule in which, in cases with more than one offense, only the most severe offense is counted.

During the early planning of the program, it was recognized that the differences among criminal codes precluded a mere aggregation of state statistics to arrive at a national total. Further, because of the variances in punishment for the same offenses in different state codes, no distinction between felony and misdemeanor crimes was possible. To avoid these problems and provide nationwide uniformity in crime reporting, standardized offense definitions were formulated by which law enforcement agencies were to submit data without regard for local statutes.

Introduction

The UCR program, as originally designed, remained virtually unchanged in terms of the amount and type of data collected and disseminated for nearly 60 years. Yet by the 1980s, it had become clear that the nature of law enforcement investigations and reporting had changed dramatically since the inception of the program. As a result, the FBI initiated a thorough evaluation of the existing system with the purpose of formulating a phased-in redesign effort to enable the program to meet the needs of law enforcement into the 21st century.

Based upon the recommendations of the evaluation, the FBI developed a new system known as the National Incident-Based Reporting System (NIBRS). Unlike the aggregate summary-based system, NIBRS is designed to collect all components of a crime, including characteristics of the offense and its associated victims, offenders, property, and arrestees. In 1998, the FBI released the final data elements and offense specifications of the new system. At that time, Wisconsin and other state programs began their efforts to implement this enhanced reporting system.

Today, the state has 319 law enforcement agencies participating in Summary-Based Reporting (commonly referred to as UCR) and 80 agencies participating in Incident-Based Reporting (IBR) including the Milwaukee Police Department. Nationally, 45 states participate, or plan to participate, in the IBR program. Of those states, 13 have 100% participation rate from their local law enforcement agencies. Due to the increased reporting requirements of the new program, OJA is implementing it in phases to allow law enforcement agencies the time and resources needed to acquire the necessary technological capabilities. As the State of Wisconsin moves forward with the implementation of this data collection program, a number of additional agencies will be submitting IBR data in 2010. For a list of current certified and testing IBR agencies, please visit the OJA website.

B. Format & Structure

Due to the changing landscape of statistical information dissemination and available resources, in 2010 the Statistical Analysis Center followed the lead of the FBI and their annual report, Crime in the United States, by discontinuing all printed versions of this publication to focus exclusively on internet technology for future distributions. This allows the agency to maximize its limited resources, while continuing to provide useful and valuable data to a broad audience.

With regard to structure, the report is separated into three main sections: all arrests, adult arrests, and juvenile arrests. Within each of these sections, data are further broken down by crime types (for definitions, see Appendix E). For each crime type, a series of figures and tables are provided to show statistical information such as volume, rates, and trends.

C. Limitations

As presented by the FBI in their annual report, Crime in the United States, adequate assessment of criminality and law enforcement's response from jurisdiction to jurisdiction requires the consideration of many different variables, some of which are not readily measurable or applicable among all locales. Geographic and demographic factors specific to each jurisdiction must be considered and applied if one is going to make an accurate and complete assessment of crime in that jurisdiction. Understanding a jurisdiction's industrial/economic base; its dependence upon neighboring jurisdictions; its transportation system; and its economic dependence on nonresidents such as tourists all contribute to accurately gauging and interpreting the crime known to and reported by law enforcement. It is incumbent upon all data users to become as well educated as possible about how to understand and quantify the nature and extent of crime as reported by law enforcement agencies through the UCR program. Valid assessments are possible only with careful study and analysis of the various unique conditions affecting each local law enforcement jurisdiction.

Specific to this report, caution should be taken when comparing the results to other previous annual reports. First, shifting of a law enforcement agency from one population category to another based on annual re-estimation of the jurisdiction's population may have an affect on rates. Second, this report reflects offenses that were reported to law enforcement agencies in 2010 but may have occurred during previous years. Finally, changes to law enforcement policies and procedures and their effect on crime rates must also be taken into consideration.

Arrests in Wisconsin

Between 2009 and 2010, the State of Wisconsin experienced a 10 % decrease in the number of overall arrests. The number of violent arrests, however, increased by 1%, while the number of property arrests decreased by 10%. In addition, drug arrests increased by 2%, while society arrests decreased by 12%, and other uncategorized offenses decreased by 9%. Below are the major findings from each of the five individual crime categories:

Violent

- In 2010, Wisconsin law enforcement made 8,066 arrests for violent crime, up 1% from 2009.
- Adults were arrested for violent crimes at a higher volume and higher rate than juveniles in 2010.
- Male arrest rates have been relatively stable during the past three years, while female rates have remained moderately consistent since 2006.
- Black arrest rates have been dramatically higher than all other race categories for the past five years.

Property

- In 2010, Wisconsin law enforcement made 54,072 arrests for property crime, down 10% from 2009.
- Adults were arrested for property crimes at a higher volume than juveniles, yet juveniles were arrested at a higher rate per 100,000 population.
- Overall, both male and female arrest rates have experienced a general downward trend since 2006.
- For the past five years, Black and American Indian/Alaskan Native arrest rates have been consistently higher than those for White and Asian/Pacific Islander.

Drug

- In 2010, Wisconsin law enforcement made 25,750 drug arrests, up 2% from 2009.
- Adults were arrested for drug crimes at a higher volume and higher rate than juveniles in 2010.
- With the exception of 2006, both male and female drug arrest rates have been relatively stable during the past five years.
- Drug arrest rates among the different racial categories have remained moderately consistent since 2008. Arrest rates in all but one racial category are lower than their respective rates in 2006.

Society

- In 2010, Wisconsin law enforcement made 140,299 arrests for society crime, down 12% from 2009.
- Adults were arrested for crimes against society at a higher volume and higher rate than juveniles in 2010.
- Both male and female arrest rates have been on a general downward trend over the past five years.
- During the past five years, Black and American Indian/Alaskan Native arrest rates have been consistently higher than those for White and Asian/Pacific Islander.

Other

- In 2010, Wisconsin law enforcement made 127,276 arrests for crimes classified as other, down 9% from 2009.
- Adults were arrested at a higher volume and higher rate than juveniles in 2010.
- Overall, both male and female arrest rates have experienced a general downward trend since 2006.
- For the past five years, Black and American Indian/Alaskan Native arrest rates have been consistently higher than those for White and Asian/Pacific Islander.

Arrests: Violent

For this report, violent crimes include: Murder, Forcible Rape, Robbery, and Aggravated Assault.

Overview

In 2010, Wisconsin law enforcement made 8,066 arrests for violent crime, down 1% from last year (Table 1). Of the violent crime arrests, Aggravated Assaults accounted for 66%; Robbery, 23%; Forcible Rape, 9%; and Murder, 2%. The rate of arrests for these offenses was 143 per 100,000 Wisconsin residents (Table 2).

Age, Sex, Race

Adult arrests accounted for the majority of violent crime arrests in 2010, but when looking at the arrest rate per 100,000 residents, adults and juveniles had somewhat comparable figures. For example, adults were arrested at a rate of 154 per 100,000 adults (Table 8), while juveniles were arrested at a rate of 108 per 100,000 juveniles (Table 14).

Over the past five years, male arrest rates have remained relatively stable, experiencing minor rise-and-fall fluctuations. Female arrest rates on the other hand have remained fairly consistent over all five years.

Comparing by race, notable differences were found in the arrest rates between the four race classifications. Black arrest rates have been substantially higher than all other classifications for the past five years. American Indian/Alaskan Native rates have also been consistently high. White and Asian/Pacific Islander arrest rates have remained relative similar and stable over this same time period. For the past few years, arrest rates have steadily been decreasing for all race categories except Black, which instead has shown a steady increase.

It should be noted that beginning in 2005, and continuing through 2010, a number of agencies in the state began submitting crime data via the Wisconsin Incident Based Reporting System (WIBRS). The transition into this new reporting system may account for some of the change in numbers seen.*

Arrests: Violent

Sex by Violent Offense Type

In 2010, males were arrested at a greater rate than females for all violent crimes. As in previous years, Murder accounted for the least number of violent crime arrests with five arrests per 100,000 males and less than one arrest per 100,000 females.

Both males and females were arrested for Aggravated Assault at a higher rate than any other violent crime, with males accounting for 84% of the total arrests. The arrest rate for Robbery followed the same pattern as the other violent crime categories, with males being arrested at a notably higher rate than females.

Murder	5	0
Forcible Rape	25	1
Robbery	60	6
Aggravated Assault	153	36

Race by Violent Offense Type

White arrests accounted for 54% (4,362) of the total violent crime arrests in 2010, followed by Black arrests at 42% (3,359) American Indian/Alaskan Native arrests at 1% (256), and Asian/Pacific Islander arrests at 1% (89). For further details, see Appendix D.

In comparing the arrest rates of violent crime by race, sizeable differences were found between the four race classifications. Black arrest rates were higher than the other three race classifications for all four violent crime offenses. Most notably, the Black arrest rate for Murder was 22 per 100,000 black residents followed next by American Indian/Alaskan Native at 5 per 100,000 Asian residents. Similarly, the Black rate for Robbery was 357 followed next by American Indian/Alaskan Native at 25. Arrest rates for Asian/Pacific Islander were generally the lowest among the four race categories, followed by White and American Indian/Alaskan Native.

Consistent with previous years, Aggravated Assaults accounted for the highest rates of arrests for all four race categories, while Murder rates were the lowest. Generally, arrests rates for Robbery and Forcible Rape are somewhat comparable. The only exception to this is found in the Black category, where the Robbery arrest rate was higher than the Forcible Rape arrest rate.

Arrests: Property

For this report, property crimes include: Burglary, Theft, Motor Vehicle Theft, Arson, Forgery, Fraud, Embezzlement, Stolen Property, and Vandalism.

Overview

In 2010, Wisconsin law enforcement made 54,072 arrests for property crime, down 10% from last year (Table 1). Of these property crime arrests, Theft accounted for 59%; Vandalism, 17%; Fraud, 8%; and Burglary, 8%. Motor Vehicle Theft, Embezzlement, Forgery, Stolen Property, and Arson, accounted for the remaining 8% of arrests. The rate of arrests for these offenses was 1,070 per 100,000 Wisconsin residents. (Table 3)

Age, Sex, Race

Although adults accounted for the majority of property crime arrests in 2010, juveniles were arrested at a greater rate per 100,000 residents. For example, adults were arrested at a rate of 968 per 100,000 adults (Table 9), while juveniles were arrested at a rate of 956 per 100,000 juveniles. (Table 15)

Overall, both male and female arrest rates have been on a general downward trend over the past five years. As with previous years, males were arrested at a noticeably higher rate than females, accounting for 64% of total property crime arrests in 2010.

Comparing by race, notable differences were found in the arrest rates between the four race classifications. Black and American Indian/Alaskan Native arrest rates have consistently been higher than White and Asian/Pacific Islander arrest rates over the past five years. Arrest rates for all four race classifications are down from five years ago.

It should be noted that beginning in 2005, and continuing through 2010, a number of agencies in the state began submitting crime data via the Wisconsin Incident Based Reporting System (WIBRS). The transition into this new reporting system may account for some of the change in numbers seen.*

Arrests: Property

Sex by Property Offense Type

In 2010, males and females had similar arrest rates for Fraud, Forgery and Embezzlement crimes. Theft accounted for the greatest number of property crime arrests for both males and females, while Embezzlement and Arson accounted for the least.

Both males and females were arrested for Theft at a higher rate than any other property crime, with males accounting for 56% of the total Theft arrests. Burglary and Vandalism arrest rates for males were markedly higher than the arrest rate for females.

White arrests accounted for 71% (38,506) of the total property crime arrests in 2010, followed by Black arrests at 25% (13,544), American Indian/Alaskan Native arrests at 3% (1,424), and Asian/Pacific Islander arrests at 1% (598). For further details, see Appendix D.

In comparing the arrest rates of property crime by race, sizeable differences were found between the four race classifications. Black and American Indian/Alaskan Native rates were higher for nearly all property crime offenses. Most notably, there were 2,143 arrests per 100,000 Black residents for Theft and 939 arrests per 100,000 American Indian/Alaskan Native residents for Theft. Arrests rates for Arson and Embezzlement were relatively similar among all four race classifications.

Overview

In 2010, Wisconsin law enforcement made 25,750 drug arrests, up 2% from last year (Table 1). Of the total drug arrests, 81% were for Possession and 19% were for Sale/Manufacturing. The most common drug associated with both drug sale and possession arrests was marijuana. Drug arrests were made at a rate of 455 per 100,000 Wisconsin residents (Table 4).

Age, Sex, Race

Adults accounted for the majority of drug arrests in 2010, and also had the highest arrest rate per 100,000 residents when compared to the juvenile arrest rate. For example, adults were arrested at a rate of 501 per 100,000 adults (Table 10), while juveniles were arrested at a rate of 307 per 100,000 juveniles (Table 16).

With the exception of 2006, male drug arrest rates have been generally consistent for the past five years. During this same period, female drug arrest rates have remained relatively stable since 2008.

Comparing by race, notable differences were found in the arrest rates between the four race classifications. Black and American Indian/Alaskan Native arrest rates have consistently been higher than White and Asian/Pacific Islander over the past five years. The arrest rates of all four race categories have experience a rise-and-fall pattern since 2006, with the exception of American Indian/ Alaskan Native which has been on a steady decline.

It should be noted that beginning in 2005, and continuing through 2010, a number of agencies in the state began submitting crime data via the Wisconsin Incident Based Reporting System (WIBRS). The transition into this new reporting system may account for some of the change in numbers seen.*

Arrests: Drugs

Sex by Drug Offense Type

In 2010, males were arrested at a higher rate than females for all drug offenses. As in previous years, Marijuana Possession accounted for the greatest number of drug arrests with 481 arrests occurring per 100,000 males and 91 arrests occurring per 100,000 females. For both males and females, the highest drug sale arrest rate was for marijuana offenses.

White arrests accounted for 67% (17,276) of the total drug arrests in 2010, followed by Black arrests with 30% (7,755), American Indian/Alaskan Native arrests 2% (538), and Asian/Pacific Islander arrests 1% (181). For further details, see Appendix D.

In comparing the arrest rates of drug offenses by race, sizeable differences were found between the four race categories. Most notably, Black and American Indian/Alaskan Native residents were consistently arrested at a greater rate than White and Asian/Pacific Islander residents. Arrest rates in the Asian/Pacific Islander category were the lowest among the four race categories.

Consistent with previous years, Marijuana Possession accounted for the highest rate of arrests for all four race categories. Black residents were arrested at a noticeably higher rate for Marijuana Possession than any other race category, with 1,255 arrests per 100,000 Black residents. The sale or possession of synthetic narcotics generally had the lowest arrest rate among the drug offenses for all race categories.

For this report, society crimes include: Weapon Law Violations, Prostitution, Sex Offenses, Gambling Violations, Driving While Intoxicated, Liquor Law Violations, Disorderly Conduct, Vagrancy, Curfew & Loitering, and Runaways.

Overview

In 2010, Wisconsin law enforcement made 140,299 arrests for society crime, down 12% from last year (Table 1). Of these society crime arrests, Disorderly Conduct accounted for 40%; Operating While Intoxicated, 25%; Liquor Law Violations, 23%; and the remaining seven society crimes, 12%. The rate of arrests for these offenses was 2,481 per 100,000 Wisconsin residents (Table 5).

Overview

In 2010, Wisconsin law enforcement arrested 104,391 adults for other uncategorized crimes, down 8% from last year (Table 7). Of these adult arrests, All Other accounted for 84%; Simple Assault, 14%; Family Offenses, 2%; and Negligent Manslaughter, less than 1%. The rate of arrests for these offenses was 2,622 per 100,000 adult residents (Table 12).

Age, Sex, Race

Thirty-three percent of adults arrested for other uncategorized offenses were between the ages of 18 and 24. Generally, as the groups increased in age, the number of arrests decreased. Adults age 18 to 34 accounted for 62% of the total adults arrested for other crime, while adults age 35 and over accounted for 38%.

Consistent with previous years, adult males were arrested at a noticeably higher rate than adult females, accounting for 74% of total other arrests in 2010. Male arrest rates have steadily declined since 2006 while female other arrest rates have experienced a rise-and-fall pattern.

Comparing by race, notable differences were found in the arrest rates between the four race classifications. Black and American Indian/Alaskan Native adult arrest rates have consistently been higher than White and Asian/Pacific Islander arrest rates over the past five years. Adult arrest rates for all race categories decreased in 2010 and are lower than 2006 levels.

It should be noted that beginning in 2005, and continuing through 2010, a number of agencies in the state began submitting crime data via the Wisconsin Incident Based Reporting System (WIBRS). The transition into this new reporting system may account for some of the change in numbers seen.*

The rate of arrests for these offenses was 108 per 100,000 juvenile residents (Table 14).

Age, Sex, Race

Fifty-six percent of the juveniles arrested for violent crimes were between the ages of 16 and 17. Generally, as the groups increased in age, the number of arrests increased. Juveniles age 15 to 17 accounted for 74% of the total juveniles arrested for violent crime, while juveniles under the age of 15 accounted for 26%.

Overall, female arrest rates have been on a general downward trend, while male arrest rates have experienced a rise-and-fall pattern. As with previous years, males were arrested at a noticeably higher rate than females, accounting for 86% of total violent crime arrests in 2010.

Comparing by race, notable differences were found in the arrest rates between the four race classifications. Black and American Indian/Alaskan Native arrest rates have consistently been higher than White and Asian/Pacific Islander arrest rates over the past five years. All of the race classification groups have experienced a decrease in arrest rates compared to 2006. The violent juvenile arrest rates by race are noticeably lower when compared to adult violent arrest rates.

It should be noted that beginning in 2005, and continuing through 2010, a number of agencies in the state began submitting crime data via the Wisconsin Incident Based Reporting System (WIBRS). The transition into this new reporting system may account for some of the change in numbers seen.*

Juvenile Arrests: Other

For this report, juvenile other crimes include: Negligent Manslaughter, Other Assaults, Family Offenses, and All Other (except Traffic).

Overview

In 2010, Wisconsin law enforcement arrested 22,885 juveniles for other crimes, down 16% from the previous year (Table 13). Of these juvenile other crime arrests, All Other accounted for 85%; Simple Assault, 14%. Family Offenses and Negligent Manslaughter accounted for the remaining 1%. The rate of arrests for these offenses was 1,718 per 100,000 juvenile residents (Table 18).

Age, Sex, Race

Juvenile arrests for other crime were somewhat evenly distributed among four of the five age groupings. Fifty-seven percent of juveniles arrested were between the ages of 16 and 17, while 38% were between the ages of 13 and 15.

Consistent with previous years, males were arrested at a noticeably higher rate than females, accounting for 68% of total other arrests in 2010. Overall, juvenile arrest rates for both males and females have steadily declined since 2005.

Comparing by race, notable differences were found in the juvenile arrest rates between the four race classifications. Black and American Indian/Alaskan Native arrest rates have consistently been higher than White and Asian/Pacific Islander arrest rates over the past five years. Arrest rates for all racial groups have decreased in 2010 and are at lower levels than 2006.

It should be noted that beginning in 2005, and continuing through 2010, a number of agencies in the state began submitting crime data via the Wisconsin Incident Based Reporting System (WIBRS). The transition into this new reporting system may account for some of the change in numbers seen.*

Sex by Other Offense Type

In 2010, juvenile males were arrested at a greater rate than females for all crimes classified as other. As in previous years, Negligent Manslaughter accounted for the least number of these juvenile arrests, with zero arrest per 100,000 males and less than one arrest per 100,000 females.

Juvenile males and females were both arrested for All Other crime at a higher rate than any other crime in this category, with males being arrested at almost two times the rate of females. The arrest rate for Other Assaults and Family Offenses followed the same pattern, with males being arrested at a notably higher rate than females.

Race by Other Offense Type

White juvenile arrests accounted for 68% (15,542) of the total arrests classified as other in 2010, followed by Black juvenile arrests with 27% (6,207), American Indian/Alaskan Native juvenile arrests 3% (714), and Asian/Pacific Islander juvenile arrests 2% (422). For further details, see Appendix D.

In comparing the arrest rates of these other crimes by race, sizeable differences were found between the four race categories. Black and American Indian/Alaskan Native juveniles were arrested at a higher rate for all four crime offenses. Most notably, there were 3,518 arrests per 100,000 Black residents for All Other offenses and 2,147 arrests per 100,000 American Indian/Alaskan Native residents. Arrest rates in the Asian/Pacific Islander category were generally the lowest among the four race categories.

Consistent with previous years, All Other juvenile arrests accounted for the highest rate of arrests among the four race categories, while Negligent Manslaughter arrests were the lowest.

UCR DEFINITIONS

Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) definitions were developed to provide a common language with which to measure crime in the United States. In an effort to normalize differences between varying state statutes, these definitions were purposefully designed to be broad translations of offense types. Accordingly, the offense definitions in the UCR Program are based on the common-law definitions found in the Black's Law Dictionary, the Program's 1932 Standard Classification of Offenses, and the National Crime Information Center's Uniform Offense Classifications. Below is a list of those examined in this report:
